Too hot or not?

As I write this the sun is shining, it is a glorious summer's day and I have had conversations already today about how it feels too hot to do anything. We wait for the sun all year, and then if it finally comes we can't cope.

But then, there are others who say that it is just nice, it's just right. Particularly those among us who grew up in other, warmer, parts of the world—this weather is much more like it.

It's all about perspective and we see so many different perspectives every day. Food might be too sweet for somebody but not somebody else. A new jumper (not for now—it's too hot) might be too dark or too thick for somebody, but not for somebody else.

It's like that with faith in Jesus too—and it always has been. John 12:37 in the Bible tells us how Jesus had performed a number of miracles in full view of lots of people, but some of those people still chose to not believe in him.

Perspective is a good thing and something to be respected, but surely there sometimes comes a point when it is not about perspective—because truth actually is truth.

We are looking to run an Alpha Course this autumn where people can find out about the different 'truths' and 'perspectives' about Jesus. We would love to have you join us if you are interested. Details will be available in July.
